History:

* As part of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission's decision of 1993, Naval Air Station Dallas was relocated to the previous site of Carswell Air Force Base, Fort Worth, Texas. The new base is named NAS Fort Worth, Joint Reserve Base (JRB) at Carswell Field.

NAS JRB Fort Worth originated in 1941 as Tarrant Field Airdrome. The airdrome became Fort Worth Army Air Field on January 2, 1942, following the attack on Pearl Harbor. The airfield was renamed Carswell Air Force Base in 1948, to honor Fort Worth native Major Horace S. Carswell, Jr. Carswell Air Force Base was one of the first Strategic Air Command bases and was also the site for filming the James Stewart classic "Strategic Air Command."

Under the 1991 Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC '91) Commission, Carswell Air Force Base closed on September 30, 1993. SAC had disestablished in 1992, concluding 46 years at Carswell. On October 1, 1993, the 301st Fighter Wing assumed base responsibilities establishing Carswell as an Air Reserve Base.

Under BRAC '93, a new concept of joint reserve operations was born. Naval Air Station, Dallas and its tenants along with units from Naval Air Station Glenview and Memphis were relocated to Carswell Field.

On October 1, 1994, the Navy established itself as the host command, renaming the 1,805 acre base Naval Air Station Joint Reserve Base, Fort Worth, also retaining the name Carswell Field. Two U.S. Marine Corps squadrons and a small contingent of Navy personnel had permanently relocated at that time. All moves were completed in late 1998.

Naval Air Station Joint Reserve Base, Fort Worth, under the operational command of the Commander, Naval Reserve Force, is a joint defense facility which plays a pivotal role in training and equipping air crews and aviation ground support personnel. The Navy Fort Worth "team" ensures reservists receive quality training in preparation for mobilization readiness; here to serve the reservists, tenants, and surrounding communities while accomplishing its primary purpose of defense readiness for America.

NAS JRB Fort Worth is located within the city limits of Fort Worth Texas. Fort Worth is part of the Dallas/Fort Worth Metroplex. The DFW Metroplex is the largest metropolitan area in North Central Texas. In many regards, this is a plus for all relocating military members.

(If you are a First Termers and are flying into Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport, you should either make every effort to have your sponsor meet you at the airport or provide you with information on alternative modes of travel to the base. Also see SURVIVAL TIPS FOR FIRST TERMERS section)

NAS JRB Fort Worth is located 7 miles North/Northwest of downtown Fort Worth, along HWY 183. The Base is still listed by its former name (Carswell Air Force Base) on many current road maps.

NAS JRB Fort Worth's primary responsibility is to train and equip air crews and aviation ground support personnel in preparation for mobilization readiness. The base operates on a Tuesday thru Saturday schedule. During drill weekends, reservists receive PRIORITY for billeting onboard NAS Ft. Worth. Billeting is usually more available during the week on a Space-A basis.

Personnel contemplating renting a home or an apartment be aware that once you have moved here, the government WILL NOT move you a second time to a new location, unless you are moving into base housing. Therefore, consider carefully the location you wish to move to and any lease agreements you may be required to sign. Be sure to check with the HOUSING REFERRAL OFFICE before signing any binding lease agreements. You will in all likelihood be encouraged to have a RELETING clause included in your lease agreement.

IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT YOU ADD YOUR NAME TO THE HOUSING WAITING LIST UPON YOUR ARRIVAL AT NAS FORT WORTH.

Should you fail to add your name and LATER decide you have a NEED to move into base housing, your name will go on the list based on THE DATE YOU PLACE YOUR REQUEST. IT CANNOT BE BACK-DATED TO YOUR ORIGINAL ARRIVAL DATE.

The Family Housing Office has a new Set-Aside Program for community apartments.

Visit the Housing Referral Section for details. Call Comm. (817) 782-5711

DSN 739-5711. The Family Housing Office e-mail is: hsgdept@flash.net.

About FORT WORTH

HISTORY:

Despite its name, Fort Worth was never a fort. The former camp was named after General William J. Worth, who fought in the Mexican War. After initial slow growth in the 1870's (due to problems with expansion of the railroad system into the area), the citizens rallied together to build the city into the cultural and industrial center it is today.

Fort Worth is the epitome of the the Texas "Cowtown". Cattle are still an important industry, and longhorn herds can occasionally be glimpsed from the road. Cowboys and cowgirls still mix with suited business people downtown, and the Stockyards area is, appropriately, the center of culture in the city, flanked by numerous museums, artistic centers, and theaters.

Money magazine ranked Fort Worth #1 on its 1998 list of the South's most livable places. Fort Worth was ranked #9 on a list of metropolitan areas with 1 million or more in population and was the highest rated city in Texas. Dallas was No. 10. Money magazine noted that Fort Worth's cost of living, including housing and utilities, and unemployment rate are lower than the national average. The city ranked high on 37 "livability factors" including clean water, low crime, clean air, good public schools and low property taxes.

Fort Worth is a true study in contrasts. It is a large city with a small hometown feel, combining the best aspects of the cowpoke heritage with the benefits of big-city life. The inhabitants are friendly, yet sophisticated, equally at home in a honky-tonk or a Rembrandt exhibition.

Commercial areas are filled with numerous businesses, many in high rises, while scenic ranches and farmland spread out along the horizon. For a taste of high culture, visit Dallas. For scenic vistas, drive through East or Southwest Texas. For both, come to Fort Worth. Welcome home.

THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY:

While the Fort Worth area's past is rich in tradition and frontier heritage, the community continues to race toward the future by proving itself a hotbed for major national and international corporate developments. Over the past few decades, Fort Worth and Tarrant County have emerged as new leaders in the high-tech, high-stakes global business community by attracting major employers and distributors to the area. In 1995, Fort Worth ranked in the top five cities across the country for new and expanding business facilities. The numbers continue to grow today as companies across the country discover Fort Worth's progressive business climate. From the strength of the local banking community to the revitalization of downtown, the Fort Worth-area economy is as healthy and diverse as it is interconnected.

Humid and subtropical with hot summers. Winters are mild, but "northers" occasionally occur, bringing cold air masses down from the great plains and the Rocky Mountains. These cold snaps, however, are not prolonged. Much of the rain fall occurs at night and downpours may accompany thunderstorms during April and May. Hail falls about two to three times a year. Snowfall is slight and doesn't accumulate.

From the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM (special newspaper article):

FORT WORTH---School districts come in two general sizes in Fort Worth and outlying areas to the South and West: large and extra-small.

Fort Worth is by far the biggest dog on the block, with almost 76,000 students in its 111 schools.

The rest of the nearby districts enroll between 1,700 and 7,100 students. The Crowley school district has the largest enrollment of the group(outlying areas), with about 7,700 students. Burleson is next, with almost 6,000 students; followed by Azle, 5,590; Eagle Mountain-Saginaw, 5,500; Everman, 3,290; Castleberry, 3,150; Aledo, 2,175; and Lake Worth, 1,700.

The Burleson district spills into Johnson County, and Aledo is in Parker County.

Choosing between the two general sizes of districts depends on what parents and their children seek.

Fort Worth, like its large urban counterparts across the country, has the area's most diverse student population. The ethnic breakdown is 39 percent Hispanic, 33 percent African American, 26 percent Anglo and 2.5 percent "other," (such as American Indian, East Indian and Asian).

On the opposite end is Aledo, with 96 percent Anglo, 3 percent Hispanic and 1 percent "other" student body.

The poverty rate ranges from 8 percent in Aledo to 65 percent in Fort Worth (these are ranges of fluctuation). Several area districts are in the 20 percent to 60 percent range.

In a large urban district such as Fort Worth, "you get a slice of reality you wouldn't get in suburban schools," according to Gwen Schroth, assistant professor of educational administration at Texas A&M University-Commerce. In a small, suburban school district, she said, "You're going to have a picture of life that may not be true of real life."

But the advantages of smaller districts, Schroth said are numerous:

There is a higher incidence of parent involvement, people relocate to these areas because of the school systems. In addition there is a higher rate of student participation in school activities, such as dramatic productions and sports, simply out of necessity.

Smaller districts will tend to be some what more manageable administratively than will large districts.

Large school districts have been a major contributor in the burgeoning of private schools throughout the area.

Some educators still see urban schools as "America's best bargain". Urban schools get more achievement out of our kids than does any other kind of school system, public or private. because they are forced to work harder and develop programs to face and overcome challenges that other school systems have managed to temporarily avoid or permanently postpone.

Several studies on large vs. small districts yield mixed results:

Scores on state achievement tests tend to be higher among the smaller districts, but some research suggests that large schools are better than smaller schools at teaching higher-order thinking skills.

In addition, a study published in the Educational Evaluation and Policy Analysis journal in 1988 found that students in low socioeconomic area schools performed better in small schools, while students in more affluent communities fared better in large schools.

Proponents of large school districts argue that they can provide a broader curriculum to a wider range of students than can smaller districts. That proves true when comparing Fort Worth's school district to outlying districts: Fort Worth offers several Magnet programs at the elementary and secondary levels, as well as Montessori programs and a large range of college advanced placement courses from math and English to art.

Fort Worth and other area school districts offer some of the same amenities such as special education facilities and bilingual programs, but the availability of Internet access and advanced placement courses varies widely among the districts.

On the other hand, urban schools generally have greater teacher absenteeism and more discipline and safety problems than their suburban counterparts, one report found.

Many problems usually associated with urban districts, such as the proliferation of gangs, have begun to manifest themselves in some suburban districts, according to Schroth, a former administrator for the Greenville school district who witnessed such hinderances seeping in from Dallas. The overall picture is reflective of social changes across the nation.

Private Schools

Fort Worth has several private and parochial schools. Admission standards vary with each school, but most require a combination of testing, one on one kindergarten evaluations, recommendations from teachers, and report cards or current transcripts. There are often waiting lists, it is important to check on enrollment procedures as early as possible.

PCS MOVING ALLOWANCES:

DISLOCATION ALLOWANCE (DLA): Active duty personnel with family members moving from a permanent duty station are entitled to a dislocation allowance which is paid to offset the costs of closing one home and setting up another. This allowance is equal to two and one half months BAQ. DLA is not available to those transferring in the same geographic location. DLA may be dispersed at the time of travel or upon arrival at the gaining command.

MILEAGE IN LIEU OF TRANSPORTATION
(MALT): Service members receive a MALT when they drive to a new assignment. The allowance is computed on federal tables of the mileage between the old and new duty stations. Even though the official distance may be longer or shorter than the service member drives, the official distance determines the allowance payable. MALT is also paid to those going overseas if they drive from their stateside location to the port of embarkation for transcontinental plane or ship, or from the port of debarkation to the new duty station.

Check with your PSD to get current milage rates.

These rates apply to spouses authorized to travel alone or with family members and to sponsors traveling with family members. These rates also apply to travel in a second car when its use is authorized. MALT will be dispersed at the time of travel.

PER DIEM ALLOWANCE: Along with DLA and MALT, food and lodging are allotted when making a PCS move. The allowance is paid at a per diem rate for you and your family members. POV travel at the rate of 350 miles per day is a per diem amount. Service members receive $50.00 a day plus $37.50 a day for their spouse and each family member at least twelve years of age and $25.00 a day for each family member under the age of twelve. When a spouse travels separately, the spouse receives $50.00 a day; and family members traveling with their spouse receive $37.50 a day or $25.00 day, depending on the age.

TEMPORARY LODGING ENTITLEMENT (TLE): This allowance is for PCS transfers in the United States. TLE provides service members up to $110.00 a day for up to ten days to offset housing costs incurred locally before departing an old duty station or after reporting to a new duty station. TLE is figured by a complex formula similar to that for TLA. TLE is usually payable for a maximum of ten days. You must check into your command upon arrival to be eligible for TLE.

TEMPORARY LIVING ALLOWANCE (TLA): New arrivals at overseas bases are eligible for this allowance to help offset the cost of temporary housing and meals. You are entitled to TLA even if you move into temporary government quarters. The amount of TLA depends on several factors, including family size, local per diem rate, actual cost of quarters and whether the quarters provide cooking or dining facilities. A single person receives 65% of the local per diem rate if actual expenses are that much, and a member with one or two family members receives 100% of the local per diem rate if expenses warrant. For each additional family member, the per diem rate is raised by 25%. TLA is paid in fifteen day increments and usually up to a sixty day limit for those arriving and a ten day limit for those departing overseas.

ADVANCED PAY:  Please only consider as a last option. As soon as you receive your orders, a spending plan must be developed early enough to save extra money to be used to assist with the moving expenses. Many times advance pay is spent on other "emergencies" and often depleted before actual moving expenses are incurred. In addition, advance pay is a "dead horse" that automatically reduces your take home pay to use for bills and unforeseen moving expenses. Talk to your Command Financial Specialist prior to drawing advance pay. ***

No more than three months advanced pay may be drawn. The advance is normally repaid in equal installments over twelve months. In certain cases, repayment can be spread over twenty-four months. Advance pay is your base pay, not pay with allowances. If approved by your commanding officer, an advanced housing allowance can be drawn. You must prove that this money will be used for housing costs. Advance housing allowance is up to three months BAH for a conus move. The allowance cannot exceed the anticipated housing cost. For those moving overseas, OHA will offset your housing cost. Advanced housing allowances may be re-paid over a twelve month period, and in exceptional circumstances may be re-paid over a longer period. REMEMBER, ALL ADVANCED PAY MUST BE RE-PAID.

ADDITIONAL BENEFITS:

House Hunting Leave - Permissive travel for house hunting can be authorized by your CO. This free time is executed through no cost TAD orders and cannot exceed ten days, five of which may be work days. House hunting leave can be authorized before you transfer or after you report to a new command.

Proceed time is an administrative absence not charged as leave (normally four days). It can be granted to personnel ordered to and from ships, or to mobile units having a sea/shore rotation code of 2 or 4, or from an "all other tours," and to or from an overseas accompanied tour.

In addition a family's financial situation tends to change during a move. This can be as a result of the loss of a second income, unexpected expenses in route, vacation in route, auto repairs, utility deposits and other move-in costs at the new location. Please utilize the Financial Planning Counselor at your present location and visit or call our counselor once you arrive.

Survival Tips For First Termers

Survival Tips for First Termers Overview

As a first termers, you can ease your transition to the area and to the base by first making contact with your sponsor prior to your arrival. If you are flying in, the Dallas Fort Worth (D/FW) International Airport can be a challenge even for an experienced traveler. If a sponsor isn't available, you will most likely need to travel to the base via taxi or Airport Shuttle service. The cost will be approximately $28 to $38+ depending on mode of travel. The Airport Shuttle fee will probably be less than the taxi. You'll be able to recoup your fee when you file your travel claim, hold onto your receipt. If you weren't provided a sponsor, you may want to contact your unit to notify them of your expected arrival. Try to contact a supervisor or other administrator who can assist you and answer any questions. If you are USN or USNR and do not know which unit you are assigned to, you should call Active Duty Services at (817) 782-7576 DSN 739-7576.
